Advancing Towards Sustainable Teaching, Learning & Evaluation Methods

With high-paced technological advancement and propensity of the millennial learners towards becoming digital, the role of teachers has become more challenging. The Teaching Pedagogy espoused by teachers shapes the trajectory of imparting knowledge, teaching strategies adopted by them based on the proclivity and requirements of the learners. Along with dissemination of subject knowledge, the objective of a teacher is to sensitize the learners towards the contemporary social milieu. In this respect, Decentralisation and Diversification in the domain of Education is the need of the hour. A role of teacher as a facilitator of diverse teaching - learning styles will assist the millennial learners to be more adoptable of changing higher education scenario in different part of the world. A fine blend of traditional pedagogy and dexterous deployment of online learning resources can prove significantly rewarding in teaching the millennial learners.

This FDP aims at giving valuable guidance in Teaching Pedagogy thereby understanding the disposition of the millennial learners and igniting the minds of upcoming research scholars in the filed of teaching and learning.
